3 Important details about your Chase Debit Card Coverage: An everyday debit card transaction is a one-time purchase or payment, such as groceries, gasoline or dining out, and includes PIN and non-PIN point-of-sale transactions. Whether or not you choose to have your everyday debit card transactions covered will not affect the way we treat your recurring debit card transactions (such as monthly movie rentals, gym memberships or subscriptions) when you don't have enough money in your account to cover the transactions. We may, at our discretion, authorize and pay a recurring debit card transaction that causes an overdraft and charge an Overdraft Fee.

HOW DEPOSITS AND WITHDRAWALS WORK	The Order in Which Withdrawals and Deposits Are Posted During Our Nightly Processing	<ul> <li>Posting order is the order in which we apply deposits and withdrawals to your account. We provide you with visibility into how transactions are posted and in what order to help you better manage your account.</li> <li>When we transition from one business day to the next business day we post transactions to and from your account during our nightly processing. The order in which we generally post transactions during nightly processing for each business day is: <ul> <li>First, we make any previous day adjustments, and add deposits to your account.</li> </ul> </li> <li>Second, we subtract transactions in chronological order by using the date and time of when the transaction was authorized or shown as pending. This includes ATM and Chase banker withdrawals, transfers and payments; automatic payments; chase.com or Chase Mobile online transactions; checks drawn on your account; debit card transactions; wire transfers; and real time payments. If multiple transactions have the same date and time, then they are posted in high to low dollar order.</li> <li>There are some instances where we do not have the time of the transaction therefore we post at the end of the day the transaction occurred: <ul> <li>We are unable to show the transaction as pending; or</li> <li>We don't receive an authorization request from the merchant but the transaction is presented for payment.</li> </ul> </li> <li>Third, there are some transactions of your chronological transactions. This includes Overdraft Protection transfers or transfers to maintain target balances in other accounts. We subtract these remaining transactions in high to low dollar order.</li> <li>Finally, fees are assessed last.</li> <li>If you review your account during the day, you will see that we show some transactions as "pending." For details, refer to the section "Pending" transactions in the Deposit Account Agreement.
