The Keys to Finalizing Your Retirement Plan in Your 50s

Retirement & Planning Solutions Team

Catch Up on Your Retirement Plan
Once you turn 50, your retirement may start becoming more real. At this age, you may be able to save at a typically higher rate than you could before, and you should capitalize on this savings opportunity. You can benefit from the “Catch Up” provisions available in your retirement accounts, such as a 401(k) or Individual Retirement Account. The “Catch Up” provision allows anyone age 50 or older to contribute more than the allowable maximum contribution amount.

Develop Your Income Plan and Budget
As you near retirement, it is important that you set realistic goals for your budget and income plan during your retirement. Now is a good time to meet with your J.P. Morgan Advisor to go over the sources of retirement income, your monthly retirement expenses and any other life events. It is important that you are prepared for any risks that may arise in your retirement. In addition to ensuring you have a realistic retirement income plan and budget, make sure your emergency fund equals at least 3 to 6 times your monthly expenses. And if you still have any remaining credit card debt, be sure to pay down those balances.

Reevaluate Your Asset Allocation
In addition to establishing a realistic retirement income plan and budget, it is important that you look at the investment strategy being implemented in your retirement savings plans. As you get closer to retirement, you may want to have a more conservative portfolio. Conservative does not necessarily mean only fixed income assets (such as bonds and Treasury notes) but may also include equity investments (as they may be key components within your portfolio to help grow your savings throughout retirement). Talk with your J.P. Morgan Advisor as you approach retirement to figure out which investment approach best fits your situation by utilizing our Customized Financial Analysis1.

“It is important that you look at the investment strategy being implemented in your retirement savings plans.”
Avoid Early Cash Distributions
There may be instances when you might need to take early cash distributions from your retirement savings accounts, whether this is for a life emergency or a long-awaited family trip. However, it is not encouraged. Taking early cash distributions before 55 or 59½ (depending on your plan) can result in higher taxes and may also result in early withdrawal fees. Due to the penalties that can result from early distributions, emergency savings accounts can be critical for your financial security leading up to and during retirement.

Update Beneficiary Information
With age comes more responsibility, especially when it comes to the financial safety of you, your parents and your children. It is important to update your will, general and medical powers of attorney, and living will. Your designated beneficiaries will receive the funds in your retirement accounts regardless of how you allocated your assets in your will.

1The Customized Financial Analysis referenced is a tool that provides an additional resource in the evaluation of the potential risks and returns of investment choices. The projections or other information generated by the Customized Financial Analysis regarding the likelihood of various investment outcomes are hypothetical in nature, do not reflect actual investment results and are not guarantees of future results.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION
Investing involves market risk, including possible loss of principal, and there is no guarantee that investment objectives will be achieved.

Tax-aware strategies seek to reduce capital gains. There is no guarantee that they will eliminate them. The views and strategies described herein may not be suitable for all investors. Opinions, estimates, and investment strategies and views expressed in this document constitute our judgment based on current market conditions and are subject to change without notice. This material should not be regarded as research or a J.P. Morgan research report, nor is it intended as an offer or solicitation for the purchase or sale of any financial instrument. It is not possible to invest directly in an index. Speak with your J.P. Morgan representative concerning your personal investment needs and allocation requirements.

Asset allocation/diversification does not guarantee a profit or protect against a loss.

This information is provided for informational purposes only and does not constitute a solicitation for any product or service offered by J.P. Morgan or any of its affiliates. The views expressed herein may not be suitable for all investors. This material is distributed with the understanding that we are not rendering any accounting, legal or tax advice. You should consult with your independent advisors concerning such matters.

JPMorgan Chase Bank, N.A. and its affiliates (collectively “JPMCB”) offer investment products, which may include bank managed accounts and custody, as part of its trust and fiduciary services. Other investment products and services, such as brokerage and advisory accounts, are offered through J.P. Morgan Securities LLC (JPMS), a member of FINRA and SIPC. Annuities are made available through Chase Insurance Agency, Inc. (CIA), a licensed insurance agency, doing business as Chase Insurance Agency Services, Inc. in Florida. JPMCB, JPMS and CIA are affiliated companies under the common control of JPMorgan Chase & Co. Products not available in all states.

© 2018 JPMorgan Chase & Co.