You can avoid overdrawing your account by making a deposit or transferring funds to cover the overdraft before the business day ends. If you deposit a check, this assumes we do not place a hold and the check is not returned. Here are the cutoff times for some ways of making a deposit or transferring funds from another Chase account:

- At a branch before it closes
- At an ATM or when using the Transfer Money option on chase.com or Chase Mobile® or using Chase QuickPay® with Zelle® before 11 p.m. Eastern Time (8 p.m. Pacific Time)

CHASE DEBIT CARD COVERAGE AND FEES

(Please visit www.chase.com/checking/debit-card-coverage for additional details.)

Insufficient Funds

$34 for each everyday debit card purchase that overdraws your account (maximum 3 Insufficient Funds Fees per day).
- We will not charge an Insufficient Funds Fee if your account balance at the end of the business day is overdrawn by $5 or less.
- We will not charge these fees for any item that is $5 or less, even if your account balance at the end of the business day is overdrawn.
- This fee does not apply to withdrawals made at an ATM.

OPTION #1 (YES): You ask us to add Chase Debit Card Coverage

This means you want Chase to approve and pay your everyday debit card transactions, at our discretion, when you don’t have enough money available (this includes available funds in your linked Overdraft Protection account, if enrolled). Fees may apply. You’ll have until the end of the business day to transfer or deposit enough money to avoid an Insufficient Funds Fee on these transactions.

OPTION #2 (NO): No Chase Debit Card Coverage (If you don’t choose an option when you open your account, Option #2 (No) is automatically selected for you)

This means you do not want Chase to approve and pay your everyday debit card transactions when you don’t have enough money available (this includes available funds in your linked Overdraft Protection account, if enrolled). Since everyday debit card transactions will be declined when there is not enough money available, you won’t be charged an Insufficient Funds Fee for everyday debit card transactions.

You can avoid overdrawing your account by making a deposit or transferring funds to cover the overdraft before the business day ends. If you deposit a check, this assumes we do not place a hold and the check is not returned. Here are the cutoff times for some ways of making a deposit or transferring funds from another Chase account:

- At a branch before it closes
- At an ATM or when using the Transfer Money option on chase.com or Chase Mobile or using Chase QuickPay with Zelle before 11 p.m. Eastern Time (8 p.m. Pacific Time)

The Order in Which Withdrawals and Deposits Are Processed

Generally, for each business day we will:
- FIRST, add deposits to your account
- SECOND, subtract wire transfers, everyday debit card transactions, online banking transactions, ATM withdrawals, teller cash withdrawals, and checks you write that are either cashed or deposited at a teller station by a Chase employee, in the order in which they are authorized, withdrawn, cashed or deposited
- THIRD, subtract all other items, including checks you write that are either cashed or deposited at an ATM, starting with those having the highest dollar amount and moving to the lowest. We reserve the right to use a different order in certain states.

When Your Deposits Are Available

(See Funds Availability Policy in the Deposit Account Agreement for details)

- Cash deposit – Same business day
- Direct deposit/wire transfer – Same business day
- Check deposit – Usually the next business day, but sometimes longer:
  - If we place a longer hold on a check, the first $200 will be available by the next business day.
  - The date your deposit is expected to be available will be displayed on your receipt.
  - In some situations, we may notify you at the time of your deposit if your funds (including the first $200) will not be available for up to seven business days.

A “business day” is a non-holiday weekday. The cutoff times listed in the section above will determine the “business day” for your deposit.
